Chart of the Week: Circle Surge

Stablecoins

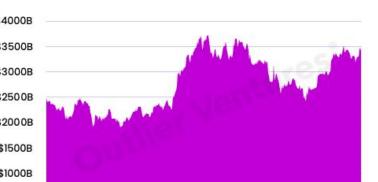

Circle Internet Group (issuer of the USDC stablecoin) had a stellar IPO debut this past week. The offering was roughly 25 times oversubscribed, with shares opening at $69 and closing at $83.23 on the first day, a 168% jump above the IPO price. The rally continued into this week, with the company now valued at approximately $26 billion. Circle's NASDAQ listing signals strong institutional appetite for stablecoins and may serve as a bellwether for other digital asset firms considering U.S. public markets.
